COMIC OPERA IS EFFORT OF CHARLES TO GET A THRONE

PROMISED REVOLUTION TURNED INTO COMEDY WHEN FORMER EMPEROR RUNS AWAY.

ALL HOPE IS LOST Hungarian Regent Horthy Acts Quickly to Stop Monarchical Attempt.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Steinmanger, West Hungary, former foreign minister, have been in debate a whole day here with former Emperor Charles, who, under conditions under which the latter would be willing to sign a formal abdication. It is said Charles is insisting that a stipulation of the validity of the claims of his son, Otto, shall be recognized and embodied in the Hungarian law.

EMPEROR REPORTED ON WAY TO BUDAPEST
Vienna.—It is unofficially reported here that Admiral Horthy, the Hungarian regent, has resigned and will let events take their course, but the report is not confirmed. It also is reported that former Emperor Charles is on the way to Budapest from the frontier and that the army is adhering to his cause and is on the move.

Proclaims Dictatorship.
Reports were received by various newspapers here Thursday that ex-Emperor Charles had proclaimed a military dictatorship at Steinmanger and that General Lehar was said to be ready at the head of 15,000 troops to march on Budapest and by force, if necessary, restore Charles to the throne.

Republicans here excitedly declare the visit of former Emperor Charles to Budapest and the Russo attending his attempt to regain the throne has dashed whatever chance may have existed for the restoration of the monarchy, either in Hungary or Austria. Monarchists reluctantly admit a restoration seems impossible.

Touch of Absurd Seen.
This is not only due to the disappointment which naturally follows the failure of a monarchist, but there is a touch of the absurd attaching to the whole adventure, which has reacted sharply against the former emperor. It has also depressed the legitimacy of the throne, and the desire for restoration, hoped for the future restoration of the Hapsburg in the return of his son.

The dramatic declaration of Charles to his friends here Friday that he would never leave Hungary alive, was repeated in Budapest when Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, remonstrated against his presence in the country, and then fled toward the border and taking refuge in the palace of Bishop Miklos in Steinmanger, later praying that he be given shelter.

U. S. PAYS OUT $12 FOR GUARDING OF PLANE STUCK HERE

It cost the government's airplane mail service $12.25 for the services of J. K. Hebel, Janesville R. R. Co. as a watchman during the time the mail plane, No. 127, piloted by the late Lieut. W. L. Carroll and Lieut. Wanders, was stuck in the mud in the Huginin field in South Janesville from January 21 to 23.

Claim of Hebel for 35 hours services watching the plane while the aviators were away was allowed by the government at the usual rate of 40 cents an hour. Postmaster Cunningham received word Thursday morning from headquarters at Minneapolis of the allowance of the claim.

Mr. Huginin has made a claim also for damages to his field by the airplane and motor truck which came in with gasoline and oil.

Works Both Ways

Would you sell your ice-box if you could get a good price for it? Last Saturday night an ad was run in the Gazette for an ice-box for sale. The man said he could have sold several more.

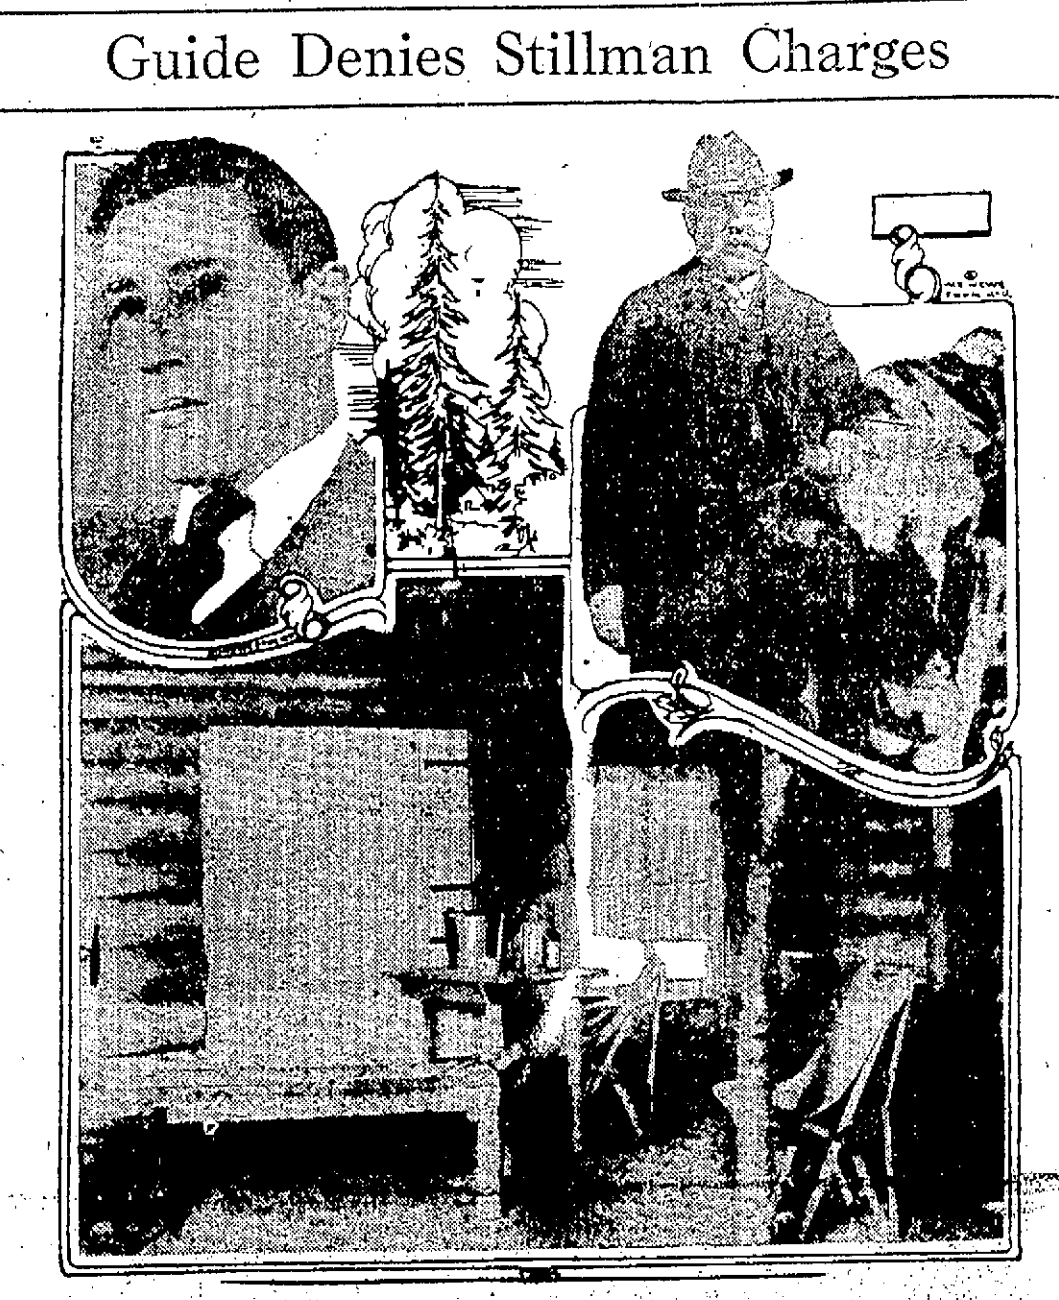

But if the same several people will run a small "wanted to buy" ad on the Classified page their wants would doubtless be filled.

BLAINE TO VETO INDUSTRIAL FUND

Governor Objects to Appropriation Bill Unless Changes Are Made.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison.—Governor Blaine will veto the industrial commission appropriation bill unless certain changes are made in it, he notified senate and assembly leaders Wednesday night. The joint finance committee decided to recall the bill and consider the changes.

Reports from the secret session of the finance committee indicate an attempt may be made to force the bill through without cutting the appropriation and then pass it over the governor's veto, if he should refuse to sign it.

Carries $200,000 Fund.
As passed the bill carries an annual appropriation of $200,000, of which $20,000 is for the routine expenses of the commission and $180,000 for the maintenance of the free employment bureau. Members of the finance committee said that when the bill is called back they will move to combine the two sums in one lump appropriation, letting the total remain as at present.

It is understood that the governor proposed a $150,000 yearly cut in the total appropriation, making it $255,000 annually. During the present fiscal year the commission had an appropriation of $251,685, but will actually spend approximately $275,000.

Entire Country Awaits, Anxiously for Result of Labor Conference.

Garbage Collection for Whole City to Be Established by May 1

Plans for a definite program of municipal collection and disposal of garbage were considered Wednesday evening at a joint meeting of the members of the Board of Health, City Council and the City Attorney at the mayor's office, city hall.

On recommendation of the Board of Health last year the council included in the city budget a fund of thirty thousand dollars to be used in garbage collection and disposal and since that time matters pertaining to this work have been delayed because of a connection which had been promised by the Detroit Reduction Company, Detroit, Mich., by which a disposal plant was to be erected by the Detroit company on a site to be selected to which all garbage was to be delivered by the city and treated in a scientific manner after the plan of operation carried on by the Detroit people in a number of other cities of the country.

City-Wide Collection, May 1.
The need for definite action with the approach of hot weather becomes important and it is expected with the revision of the present garbage ordinance, various sections of which were discussed with the members of the council last evening that a definite city-wide collection plan can be put in force by May 1st.

It is planned to make weekly collection of garbage from households throughout the city in the wards except for the months of June, July, August and September when twice a week collections will be made in all probability. In the business sections daily collections will be made.

Residents Supply Cans.
The garbage ordinance provides that each resident shall supply a uniform suitable can and that it shall be located in a convenient place for quick handling by the collector. Every household is entitled to this free garbage collection service, the fund for its maintenance as aforesaid was provided by the council and it is expected that this long standing problem will be satisfactorily solved under the new scheme.

Supported by Council.
The whole hearted support of the council has been given the project. Members of the council present were: Aldermen Ransom, Dulin, Ehl, Kelly, Menzies, Badger, Kersell and Traver.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison.—The assembly Thursday morning barred, by a vote of 52 to 25, Glenn P. Turner, lobbyist for the La Follette Progressive association, from the floor of the lower house for the remainder of the session. This is said to be the first time on record that a former member has been denied the privileges of the floor.

Move for Reconsideration.
Later, Assemblyman Tulliver, who voted for the expulsion, moved reconsideration, and his motion was set for hearing Thursday of next week.

The move against Turner took the La Follette forces by surprise. Stokes and Turner had clashed in the assembly chamber Wednesday night, but when friends separated them the incident apparently was closed.

LABOR TO SETTLE SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Former Police Chief of Minneapolis Predicts Changes in Next Few Years.

Going into detail regarding the actions of criminals, the dope fiend, the opium smoker, and other forms of vice, telling of his success at breaking strikes by giving protection to the worker as well as the factory owner, Louis Harbitt, former chief of police of Minneapolis, declared that the time is coming when all these social problems will of necessity have to be solved by the great labor movement which is sweeping over the country.

Speaking to an audience of 200 at the Armory Wednesday evening, he predicted the social workers and the newspapers of Minneapolis for not supporting him in his innovations instituted in the police department during the two years he was superintendent of police. His was loudly applauded when he told of his actions in enforcing the law during strikes, of the newshy, taxi drivers and working women, in which he declared that he believed it his duty just as much to protect the working people as the employers.

Describes Berthillon System. Illustrating his lecture with slides taken in Minneapolis he showed the old and new methods of criminal identification, the Berthillon system and the finger print system. The latter he declared would some time be used as means of positive identification of individuals. Legal documents and stated that in India where the natives are unable to write they place the imprint of a finger on the check and again at the bank when they cash it.

He declared the Harrison anti-narcotic act had made thousands of criminals. Dope fiends, in order to get drugs which they have been given and even murdered, landing in the penitentiary or in graves. Mr. Harbitt explained the Englishman taught the Chinaman the use of the opium pipe, and the latter to roll the pipe and 12 seconds to smoke it, he said. That opium does not put the user to sleep as generally believed was his statement as he has known a user smoke for two and a half hours without falling asleep.

Breaks Many Strikes. Ex-chief Harbitt said he contended, while chief of police, that if the strike was strictly enforced as law, the strike would be broken up because strike breakers are cowards and when they come into a community to take the place of others, they must be treated as such.

Mr. Harbitt said he contended, while chief of police, that if the strike was strictly enforced as law, the strike would be broken up because strike breakers are cowards and when they come into a community to take the place of others, they must be treated as such. He declared that he had broken several strikes in Minneapolis because, when they were done the employers were sent willing to sit down to a table and arbitrate.

"I contend that it is better to turn the children back to homes than to punish them with jail sentences for once they have been behind the bars they feel that they have been overhauled and come out with a grudge against society which they do not forget, and it leads to larger crimes," he said.

Children and Poles. "An astonishing large percentage of the dope fiends which we found in Minneapolis said they learned the habit in high school. I figured that the crimes against children would be reduced if the children made the policeman their friend. Children are brought up in fear of the policeman instead of a friend."

Speaking of disorderly houses in Minneapolis he gave specific cases of where he found the owners of the houses, people prominent in business and politics, a former governor and mayor of Minneapolis, and leading social workers are realizing excessive profits in this illicit business, he said.

Chief Harbitt spoke under the auspices of the Central Labor Body. Mayor Welch was an interested listener.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Hearing that we had a vacant spot on our wall just yawning and yearning for somebody to beautify it, suddenly a messenger whispered it to Anita Stewart, our good fairy, perhaps, and the first thing we knew we had this brand new photograph of one of the most beautiful actresses in the screen fall out of our mail this morning. It's all autographed and everything, and being very generous today we decided to let you have reproduction of the picture for your album.

WHY "CAMILLE" IS TO BE MODERN. Anyone who cannot understand why "Camille" is being modernized in its motion picture form will have their curiosity satisfied by the announcement of the fact that Camille is going to be an up-to-date romance for the simple reason that Nazimova does not look well in hoopskirts. Go on, now, talk about your art.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? At home, Doris May is known as Helen Garrett.

SHIRLEY MASON'S BEST. Shirley Mason is expressed by officials at the William Fox headquarters that Shirley Mason has the best picture of her screen career in "The Lamplighter," a story which is going to be an up-to-date romance for the simple reason that Nazimova does not look well in hoopskirts. Go on, now, talk about your art.

DISCOVERING THE PAST. John Matis, who made the screen version of "The Four Horsemen," from the Spanish story by Ibanez, was an ingenue leading woman with a good knowledge of the past on Broadway less than three years ago.

Ft. Atkinson Men Fully Exonerated of Serious Charge

In the March 12th issue of the Gazette an article appeared that briefly discussed the hearing upon the assembly bill for the opening of Lake Koshkonong for the signing of rough fish.

In this article a grave injustice was done to certain eminently respectable citizens of Fort Atkinson, designated in same as "lawyers," by directly charging them with irregular practices in the relation to the opening of Lake Koshkonong.

Furthermore, the Gazette has since investigated the whole matter, and finds that the original article misrepresented the facts in the case, and that the charges were unfounded.

The question of rough fishing in Lake Koshkonong has been a bone of contention for many years, and as a result, prejudices have been engendered and personalities injected that are foreign to the issue.

In the present controversy, it is a source of the keenest regret with the Gazette that it should have been a factor in representing highly respected citizens of Ft. Atkinson in a false light to its readers, and gladly avails itself of this opportunity to repair, as far as possible, the damage done to their reputations and characters by entering this denial based upon the facts as since found.

Samson Show Is Well Received

Rich in scenery, humor, in costume, and with a variety of "hot-lips," the Samson show put on by the Samson Employees' association, at the Myers theatre Wednesday night. The second performance is Thursday night at 8:15.

Opening with a rollicking scene of an American man-of-war in the harbor of a cannibal island, the minstrelsy is carried through with increased spirit, closing with a rollicking climax.

Not a hit was experienced. Clever witticisms carried well what might otherwise have been dull spots. Jazzy songs won the house, leading smoothly to the high spots, where Miss Mabel brought the greatest applause with his saxophone solos.

A ragtime wedding with Mrs. Wilson, T. E. Robbins and William Scott, backed by a strong orchestra, led to a ragtime travesty with Joe Denning performing delightfully as Samson, stood out among a clever group of novelties.

But it is a hit to the minstrel "Hot Lips" Ray Mason, as "Hound Dog" was a comedian supreme, seconded closely by J. F. Fennas as "Shinbone Sam" and "Pee Wee" taken by George Gardner. As an interlude, the lady performed well beside "Queen Ma Golly Gosh" (Mrs. R. T. Tushard). Between the parts, Jack Robinson delighted with talent in the old time minstrel man, James Gregory, representing "Old Blues Joe" in memories of the Sunny South, displayed real acting.

Bringing visitors closely related to the fake attractions of Coney Island, the Barnum and Daley-Tay side show was original. As a burlesque, Dr. Irving Clark could do the actual thing to perfection.

Theodore Davy with his melody lane boy of girls, carried cleverly to the grand finale.

The cast: Mrs. R. T. Tushard, Dolores Kramer, Madeline Chaffield, Elizabeth Capelle, Hermine Langerer, Ruth Moody, Dorothy Dalton, Ruth Fletcher, Blaine Holland, Edna Temple, Mildred Jones, Margaret Gillespie, Alice Thayer, Irma Hicks, Helen Plonko, Frances McCarthy, Edna Stellick, Mildred Look, Eleanor Hemming, Rose Roberts and Edna McCulloch.

Brown, M. Persson, William Goetz, James Gregory, Joseph Simmons, V. Bellows, Paul J. Jones, C. Anderson, H. C. Meade, Ralph Meade, J. Dossard, W. H. Sear, and George Stramp.

APPLEBY, FORMER POLICE CHIEF, IN CITY FOR FEW DAYS

Police memories of 15 years ago were recalled Thursday when Chief Thomas Morrissey visited in the police station with William Appleby, Janesville chief of police at the time Chief Morrissey was a recruit on the force. Mr. Appleby, now owner of a large fruit farm near Mt. Airy, Georgia, is spending a few days here visiting old friends.

SEVERAL "DON'TS" FOR ALL POOLS' DAY

Frederick J. Hunkin of the Gazette Information Bureau at Washington, D. C., was asked a few days ago as to the origin of "April Pools' Day". He stated the origin is obscure, but various theories have been advanced.

But school "kids" don't care about its beginning.

A few rules that have been laid down for the day are: don't look up in the sky no matter who tells you to; don't accept any candy; don't pick up pebbles or stone-pipe; don't look around before you sit down.

Although she is a scant sixteen years of age, Erika Morini has by her violin playing set the New York musical world to using all kinds of pleasing adjectives while crony newspaper critics have condescended to compare her favorably with Fritz Kreisler and Elsie.

State Dairy and Food Appropriation Killed

Madison.—The state dairy and food department must struggle along on $75,000 annually for the next two years, the assembly decided Thursday in killing its appropriation bill. Consideration of the governor's action in vetoing the $30,000 emergency appropriation to the conservation commission was postponed until April 11. The Pottier bill to repeal the compulsory vaccination law, up for final passage, was tabled until a substitute can be produced. The assembly killed the Sullivan bill requiring every hunter to make an itemized report on the game killed in his zone and the Cattle bill regulating the price of deer tags to $1. The Polkowski bill prohibiting the use of poisonous mixtures in paint spraying machines was passed.

COUNCIL IN ACTIVE COOPERATION ON GARBAGE.

The active cooperation of the council in the matter of garbage collection and disposal and the settlement of the whole garbage question at this time, is of the sort that makes a forward looking city. We have been going on for a long time without adequate methods and under ordinances that have never fully covered the city needs. It may be said that the council now has a plan by which the garbage will be regularly collected, will be disposed of properly and the people receive real service. Janesville is growing, pessimists to the contrary notwithstanding. It may not be increasing in population as rapidly as it did a year ago, but there are things in the growth of a city, of far more importance than mere additions in the way of people. Potential power in cities does not come from numbers alone. It comes from the active work of live ones in the population—the contributors to the civic betterments. In this contribution the council has taken the right step. There are a hundred little things here and there that make a city better. Just now the city is repairing a number of streets that have long been in disrepair. That is good work. More is needed. We are getting on to meet the new things and the new life that is coming. As for the pessimist, he is not at home in Janesville.

From the Jog-rolling in the legislature one might think that many of the members were ex-lumber jacks.

STANDING WITH GOMPERS FOR AMERICA.

When we see all the discussion taking place in other cities over labor problems and compare the attitude both of the union and non-union trades and contributors to the rent strength and greatness of Janesville in its industry, we must feel like congratulating ourselves.

It is a fact that the majority of men in the trades and industries of Janesville are home owners. That is one reason why in periods of industrial depression great effort should be made to see that employment should be as constant and continuous as possible.

From the first day of the depressed conditions the organized labor of Janesville met the question with an honest expression of willingness to share in the readjustment. In Janesville we take it, organized labor prefers to follow the leadership of Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, rather than of the element that is for disruption of the republic and establishment of relations with the Russian Soviet. Just now there is a discussion on between the element which has demanded recognition of the Russian Soviet and Mr. Gompers who has opposed. In a letter to the Kalamazoo Trades and Labor Council, replying to one calling him to task for his opposition to Soviet recognition Mr. Gompers says among other things:

"In these days it is past understanding how American citizens are bringing themselves to aid and comfort propaganda that has for its purpose the destruction of the trade labor movement in America and the overthrow of our republic."

The letter quoted from numerous official announcements of the Russian Government as to the necessity for "militarization of labor" in order that "masses of labor should be moved about, ordered and sent from place to place in the same manner as soldiers." Mr. Gompers commented on Trotsky's had said to force the return to work of railroad and bank employees who had "voluntarily" quit their positions.

"Does the Kalamazoo Trades and Labor Council support this programme for the United States?" Mr. Gompers inquired.

"It may be news to you that the greatest amount of American manufactured articles sent to Russia, outside of munitions, was in 1912," he wrote, "and that amounted to only $10,000,000." Trade relations with Russia were formally resumed in July, 1920, the letter continued, with the removal of the embargo, and today "there is no obstacle in the way of the Russian people dealing with the United States as far as the latter is concerned."

"Millions of dollars are known to have been sent from Russia to the United States to pay those who circulate Bolshevik propaganda," Mr. Gompers said.

"If those who have been consciously or unconsciously aided in the circulation have failed to be rewarded they have missed a great opportunity for gain, for their services have been well worth financial recognition by Lenin and Trotsky. When the people of Russia elect a representative government the American Federation of Labor will be the first to demand its recognition."

It would seem that Mr. Gompers has completely answered the Soviet propaganda and that the home-owning workers of America, including Janesville, will be standing solidly with the leader of the American Federation of Labor.

One reason why America does not follow Great Britain in making a deal with Lenin is that we do not have to buy immunity from Bolshevism.

EVIDENTLY A "WARPED" VISION.

There are different ways of looking at things. Here for instance is an interesting episode showing the unfriendly attitude Kansas City police have even toward tables and chairs in the rear of a cigar store that might be used for gambling. From the Kansas City Star:

"Following out recent orders issued by Chief Edwards to destroy anything found in a cigar store or 'soft' drink establishment which might be used for gambling, R. E. Stafford, detective, and John Schiller and Charles E. Schiller, patrolmen not in uniform, smashed several tables and chairs found in the rear of a cigar store yesterday afternoon at 20 East Missouri avenue. The

THE NEWS IN PICTURES

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—Since and during the recent presidential campaign, the telling of news by photography, reached probably its highest point to date. The average reader hardly realizes or appreciates the fact that his newspaper is enabling him to see the world and its great characters without leaving his chair. The personalities of the news, especially, are brought before him just as they live and work.

Ten years ago the public man or woman was comparatively safe from the cameraman. A posed studio picture showing the subject at his or her best was all the public expected or asked. The hero or villain of the moment was shown in the newspapers as he or she appeared in the studio. A woman appeared in public print adorned as for a ball or some other formal social function. If she possessed jewels she was shown wearing them, and her expression generally was the complacent smirk that adorns the face of even the most modest of models when told to "look pleasant, please."

There was no question of letting the picture tell the story. From all the public could learn from the pictures shown them their idols spent their entire time smiling stiffly into space or gazing dreamily into the heart of a rose. A visiting president or the latest marauder received the same treatment.

Today the formal, posed studio picture, though still used extensively, fails to satisfy the newspaper reading public. The readers demand to see their favorites as they work and play. They want to see them with their hair mussed, if they are the kind whose hair is apt to be mussed. They want them human.

If the particular hero is a baseball genius the public wants to see him in action or at home playing with his dogs and children. If he is a politician here they want to see him busy at the desk where he habitually transacts business or out on the golf links for a bit of exercise.

Nor does the public curiosity stop at the hero himself. It is interested in his wife, his children, his house, his servants, his dogs, his horses and everything that concerns him as a member of the household's safe from the prying eyes of the little black box that spots satisfaction for the public demand.

It would be a hopeless task to attempt to enumerate the thousands of snapshots of the presidential candidates which were made in the last election. Candidates Cox and Harding were shown all over the country at play and at work. Their wives and families were known by sight to practically every man, woman or child in the country. A picture of Susan's lapel was reproduced in almost every newspaper in the nation. The picture was one of a few dozen snapped of the successful candidate and his wife the morning of their return to Washington from the convention at Chicago. They were breakfasting when the army of cameramen descended upon them and left their coffee to cool to obey the best of their visitors. Facing the camera, Gompers successfully has been cutting essential political success.

A joyful picture of candidate Cox playing with his tiny daughter Anne probably won for her daddy more votes than many of his speeches. One of the Democratic candidate's chief assets for publicity was admittedly his youngster. This particular picture was, it might be added, not shaped by a news photographer but by the wife of the Ohio Governor's best friend, Mrs. Timothy Anderson of Washington. The picture was borrowed of the lady by a news pictorial syndicate and by then sent throughout the country.

Ten or fifteen years ago the newspaper field in Washington was practically uncovered. Today a dozen or so cameramen spend the entire day at the White House. It would be a clever man who could play a call upon the Chief Executive and slip away unphotographed. Nor are the visitors the sole reasons for the cameramen's presence at the White House. Nothing concerning the life of the present president is allowed to remain unphotographed. Laddie Boy, the Alreidae puppy presented to President Harding by an Ohio admirer, has been photographed so often since his arrival at the White House that he is said to have acquired the camera face. The sheep belonging to President Wilson were the targets of hundreds of cameras.

President Wilson, it will be remembered, during his illness refused to be photographed. A picture of him lying ill would have been worth a small fortune to the photographer lucky enough to have made it. Upon his return to health and at the beginning of the motor rides that became during the last months of his term of office a daily occurrence he was carefully guarded by Secret Service men whose sole duty was to prevent the cameramen from making his picture. One enterprising photographer hired a boat in a club by which the White House was reached each day, and getting in a long distance lens, waited patiently day by day for the coveted picture. The picture, if successful, never appeared. Perhaps the picture was "fuzzy." The photographer in fact said so. But it was whispered among the photographers that the film was destroyed.

Another daring knight of the little black box hired a hay wagon, concealed himself in the hay with his long distance lens and tried to snap the President as he basked in the sun on the South steps of the White House supposedly broken down near the White House grounds and investigated. Again the picture never appeared. Cameramen were forbidden admittance to the State War and Navy Building because the east windows of the building overlooked the White House grounds.

President Wilson, however, finally consented to pose. It is said the zoof officers of Admiral Grayson won the cameramen this favor. The picture was made as the executive left the White House grounds. A hay wagon was used, and the various Philadelphia, New York and other out-of-town papers that had ordered it.

The new administration has been kind to the cameramen. With but one exception President Harding's personal and official family have done everything in their power to aid the photographers. The exception, the wife of one of the Cabinet secretaries, has earned the enmity of the Cabinet by refusing to permit the city by her constant refusal to let her picture to be made. In respect her house is besieged by cameramen. Her footsteps are dogged by earnest young men who have apparently no other purpose in life, to snap her picture. She has been forced to have her telephone removed to silence the endless buzz that made her days miserable with requests for pictures. The cameramen have declared war and it is a safe bet that the tale will end with the lady's surrender.

In the few weeks since March 4 the faces of the secretaries, their families and friends, have become as familiar to the average American as pictures of their own families. Truly, the great new have, in Cobb's delightful phrase, "no more privacy than a gold fish." Perhaps good taste has been transgressed at times. Perhaps even a President deserves some privacy, while it seems a little unfair because her husband has achieved office. But on the whole the cameramen have certainly enlightened the political news with a fresh and vivid interest.

The denial that threats were made by Japan if racial equality and Shantung were not granted to them, as related in Lansing's book, only makes the Shantung episode look more discreditable for President Wilson.

JUST FOLKS

FEET.
I got a caw-caw, an' it stands
Up straight, an' I got dirty habits.
An' it shows a single spect
I have to go an' wash my feet
An' every day I wash my feet
To see if I have washed my feet;
But I ain't ever really neat
All on account of havin' feet.

These feet of mine are always wrong.
I can't shuffle 'em along
Or kick a stone that's in the way.
Or if I do someone will say:
"I wish you'd lift your feet a bit.
The way you walk gives me a fit
These shoes were new a week ago
An' now you've busted out the toe."

They're always peckin' at me, too.
For standin' like the feller does.
An' just because my toes turn in.
The teacher makes the pupils grin
By tellin' me ten times a day
"Please turn your toes the other way!"
"Please turn 'em in my seat
So I can kick 'em in your face."

So I turn 'em in an' I put
One shoe upon the other foot.
One shoe upon the other foot.
One shoe upon the other foot.
One shoe upon the other foot.
One shoe upon the other foot.
One shoe upon the other foot.
One shoe upon the other foot.

I'm gettin' tired of all this talk
About the way I stand or walk.
An' anyhow it seems to me
At least as far as I can see,
My feet aren't any different than
The other feller's round here, an'
Some day they will explode—
It ain't my fault 'n' I'm pigeon-toed.

MOTHERS SHOULD BE SEEN AND NOT HEARD.

By J. A. Noyes, Idea.

I love my mother. She's a fine woman—no doubt.

So truthful. So confident.

She neither glides herself like a parlor Buddha.

Nor frolics about in semi-circles—a dismasted joy.

Free at last, free verse, free love, free to let her azure way.

She has no hard past—her future smiles serene.

No feline, she—nor has she thrown a saffronette into the ring.

But—Allah!

When I have told the world some little tale.

So imaginative and framed to please the ear.

Applauds, she regards me with a scornful stare.

Before my audience begins to scold.

"Why—it happened quite another way, my dear."

When with snobs and pert gold-diggers I am

To display with nonchalance our worldly pelf.

Airily I speak of modesties.

Courtesies—'but mother whispers—

"Babe, makes all her things herself."

If the world is to be safe for offerings,

Mothers should be seen and not heard.

We are told by a scientist that England and Ireland were separated by water between them, which is the most interesting scientific statement we have heard in some time. The party who dredged the Irish sea and put water between England and Ireland say it was a lot of trouble.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

And Yet Some People Do Not Care for Birthdays.

We had a birthday the other day. It was a thoroughly enjoyable day even though we spent it engaged in our usual occupation. In fact we had really enjoyed it all the more because we had to work and couldn't take the day off to celebrate.

We enjoyed it not because we were one year older or the calendar of life, but because it meant to us the beginning of a new year of opportunity in all things like everybody else. We have just started, but we're going to try to do it all right.

But think of it, a whole year more added to our lives. That's the greatest birthday gift of all to us and one well worth considering. We're fortunate, indeed, in that respect and we hope to make the most of what the year has in store.

All of us have birthdays, but we don't view them as a mere year gone in the cycle of time or the arrival of another twelve-month period of opportunity. It makes all the difference in the world how you consider your birthdays.—Pond du Lac Reporter.

Personal Health Service

THE FEELING OF FORTY

When I was 20 years old I used to feel sorry for the poor ginks who had arrived at the advanced age of 40. At 20 my sympathies went out to those unfortunates who had 10 years less than I had still coming. At 37 or thereabouts I finally and highly resolved never to have another birthday. I feared forward at 40 with an actual shudder. What a sad life it must be when you're 40, and only 20 years left to spend! To realize that in all likelihood you had already spent more than half of your fortune and there was no chance to recoup, for no matter what success you might have attained, there could be just so much left to spend! It didn't seem right. It was a most unhappy subject to cogitate late at night when you really should have been asleep. So I resolved to think about it in broad daylight, but it had a way of obtaining on your thoughts around bedtime, this idea of the extreme brevity of human life. Of course death was not at all terrible, just the appropriate end of the play, and yet I seemed a bitter pill to swallow.

Well, morning comes, and dispels all these gloomy thoughts. And 40, it turns out, is not so bad. Indeed, it would be a happy enough event if some low, mean, wretched did not go out of the picture at the point of life so fair to middling speed, which will carry you along for quite a distance down the outer side. In lieu of time and opportunity for suffering, you may as well play or work in the open air. If you persuade yourself to devote just 15 minutes a day to a regimen of room exercises, that together with what daily walking and occasional play will do for you, you will find you are in good shape. It certainly is a shame to round the corner with your vessel already beginning to leak under the strain of ill use and bad management.

Dr. Oiler would have been right had he said that the warper said he said. You may become rich or famous or happy or president after 40, but if you do, it is because you have laid the foundations before 40. You may publish your first story or your first novel, or win your first election or have your first baby after 40, but you've been preparing for it long before you ever dreamed of it.

ANSWER.—The food value of an egg is about 80 calories, of an orange about 50, of a grapefruit about 40. Macaroni is a most nutritious food, and is the cheese contained in it, or the cooked milk, liable to cause constipation (C. H. W.).

HOROSCOPE

The stars incline, but do not compel. THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1921.

This should be a fortunate day according to astrology. Uranus, Venus, Jupiter and Mercury are all in benefic aspect; the Sun alone being adverse in rule.

It is a day in which both men and women must depend upon themselves for success, since it is most unfavorable for any sort of support or aid from persons in positions of authority. Applicants for political positions would better avoid all personal interviews, while this configuration prevails.

Uranus is in a place supposed to make the mind keen, analytical and active. Inventors should make the most of this planetary government. Women have the best possible disposition of the stars, making for good judgment, common sense and effective effort.

Dealers in clothing, millinery, jewelry and ornamental articles of all kinds should profit by this day's truce.

This rule is an auspicious one for all the arts, which should command serious attention in the United States at this time.

Lawyers have the forecast of much activity, for there will be cases involving international questions that affect many industries in this country.

Honors for a famous educator are proffered by the stars. A mission to Europe seems to be indicated for a university president.

The should be an extraordinarily favorable day for all lines of advertising and personal publicity should be especially productive of good results.

Revival or increase of interest in certain card games among men in high place is foretold.

Persons whose birthday is in the month of April in which they will meet with great success and corresponding disappointment, but they will prosper if they avoid dependence on persons who are superiors in any way.

Children born on this day probably will have very happy and prosperous lives. Girls are likely to marry most fortunately.

Insurance Men Cash in on Women's Short Skirts

(By Associated Press.)

Geneva.—Swiss women who wear short skirts and low-necked gowns will have to pay higher rates of life insurance than those who do not, announced that fixing the premiums on policies of women's lives they will take into consideration the women's wearing apparel. The shorter the skirt or lower the neckline, the higher the insurance rate will be. The Swiss companies justify this action on the ground of a great increase of illness and disease among their women clients which they claim is due to the wearing of short skirts and low-necked dresses.

Heart Can Really Be Broken Says Specialist

(By Associated Press.)

London.—Actual broken heart is a physiological possibility, according to Dr. J. Strickland Goodall, an eminent heart specialist. He said rupture of the heart fibres might result from emotion, more often from joy than grief. "The ordinary, every day emotions of life produce more wear and tear on the heart than work," he added. "The heart is protected from over-strain in a variety of ways, but the subsequent rest of the heart, is one of these."

When her timid knock came her best brought in a steaming cup. "You drink this. It'll warm you good." "What is it?" she asked shyly. "Medicine," he smiled. "Doctor's orders."

While she sipped the toddy Johnnie brought from the kitchen a tray upon which were two fried potatoes, ham, eggs and buttered toast. It was an easy guess that she had not before tasted food that day.

Clay kept up a flow of talk, mostly about Johnnie's culinary triumphs. Meanwhile he made up a bed on the couch.

Once she looked up at him, her throat swollen with emotion. "You're good."

"Who? We've been needin' a little sister to brace up our manners for us. It's lucky for us I found you. Now I expect you're tired and here be- cause it's warmer. You'll be able to make out with it all right. The springs are good." Clay left her with a cheerful smile. "Turn out the light before you go to bed, Miss Colorado. You're back with old home folks again now, you know."

"They heard her moving about for a time. Presently came silence. Tired out from the streets without food and drowsy from the toddy she had taken, Kitty fell into deep sleep undisturbed by troubled dreams.

The catman knew he had found her in the nick of time. She had told him that she had no money, no room in which to sleep, no prospect of work. Everything she had except the clothes on her back had been pawned to buy food and lodgings. But she was young and resilient. When she got back home, the country where she belonged, time would obliterate from her mind the experiences of which she had been the victim.

It was midday when Kitty woke. She heard a tumbler in the kitchen lifted up in doleful song.

"There's hard times on old Bitter Creek."

"That never can be beat. It was root hog or die."

"Under every man's sheet. We cleared up all the Indians. Drank all the alkali."

"And it's whack the cattle on, boys—"

Root hog or die."

Kitty found her clothes dry. After she dressed she opened the door that led to the kitchen. Johnnie was near the end of another stanza of his sad song:

"Oh, I'm goin' home. Bull-whackin' for to spurn; I ain't got a nickel. And I don't give a dern. 'Tis when I meet a pretty girl, You bet I will or try. I'll make her my little wife—"

Root hog—

He broke off embarrassed. "Did I wake you, all night with my fool singin'?"

"I ain't sorry I did. To the side of the doorway, tried to gain confidence from his unease. "I was already awake. Is it a range song you were singin'?"

"Yes, m. Cattle range, not kitchen range."

A wan little smile greeted his joke. The effect on Johnnie himself was more pronounced. It gave him confidence in his ability to meet the situation. He had not known before that he was a wit and the discovery of it tickled his self-esteem.

"Course, don't really clean up no Indians nor drink all the alkali. That's jes' in the song, as you might say. He began to bustle about in preparation for their breakfast.

"You're eatin' them," Johnnie reminded her with a grin.

"On one side, then, please. Mr. Lindsay says you're a good cook."

"She? I'm no great shakes. Clay he jes' brags on me."

"Lemme eat here in the kitchen. Then you won't have to set the table in the other room," she said.

The puncher's instinct was to make a spreader the dining table, but it was a thing on each I enjoy. At the same time, do you like your eggs sunny side up or turned?"

"Either way. Whichever you like, Mr. Green."

FOOTPRINTS OF 130 YEARS AGO FOUND

Hawaiian Legend Tells Story of Army Fleeing Before Goddess' Wrath.

(By Associated Press.)
Hilo, Island of Hawaii, March 28.—An Hawaiian legend that tells of the wrath of Pele, goddess of the active volcano of Kilauea, near here, is believed to have been discovered by Professor T. A. Jagger, Jr., in charge of the volcano observatory.

Dr. Jagger and his party were exploring a region that covered from the time they came upon an area thickly covered with the imprint of naked feet, all pointing in the same direction, all pointing in the same direction, all pointing in the same direction.

The tracks originally had been made of volcanic ash, which is strongly impregnated with sulphurous acid and gypsum and when wet by rain, settles into a hard concrete, thus explaining the preservation of the imprints for a period believed to have stretched over more than a century and a quarter.

Hawaiian legend and history provide the other side of the story, the connection between the Kau desert tracks and the flight of the army of Kaona, King of Kau, from Pele's wrath.

Kaona led an army of three divisions against King Kamehameha, who later united all the Hawaiian islands under his sway. In the year 1790, this year also recorded the last explosive eruption of Kilauea volcano, Hawaiian legend records the fact that some of Kaona's warriors rolled stones into Kilauea, eager to meet their doom for the goddess of the molten lake. Whatever the reason for the outbreak, Pele rose in her wrath, and with a terrific explosive eruption, totally wiped out the second division of Kaona's army.

The footprints found in the Kau desert are believed to be those of men of the first division, who, seeing the destruction of their comrades in the second, fled from the locality. The third division coming up, saw the bodies of the annihilated second and halted.

The area where the footprints were discovered is part of the new Kilauea national park, which will be dedicated this year, and steps already have been taken to enclose the tracks and preserve them.

U. S. GAINS IN PLAN TO FINANCE CHINA

New Administration Follows Lead of Wilson in Support of Banking Groups.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
Washington.—Another policy of the Wilson administration has been swallowed in entirety by the Harding administration, namely support of the banking groups of France, Great Britain, the United States and Japan in their efforts to finance China.

Secretary Charles Evans Hughes has given to the public for the first time the complete record of the negotiations between the four powers, showing among other things that the Wilson administration reversed itself in its last two years almost completely. The days when William Jennings Bryan was secretary of state, and when most everything connected with American banking interests was regarded as suspicious. It will be recalled that the original arrangement between the bankers of Great Britain, Germany, the United States, Russia and Japan fell through largely because the Washington government withdrew the support that had been extended American bankers during the Taft-Knox administration. The argument being that the financial plan interfered seriously with the "political and administrative independence of China."

War Changes Things.

The war changed things completely. Germany was no longer a party to the plan. Japan had obtained through its demands upon China certain options requiring China to consult her before making any loans and, furthermore, the United States became the only power able to extend financial aid anywhere. The record of the negotiations is a large volume of notes, memoranda and diplomatic papers which probably will have a far-reaching effect on our policy in the far East and will have an important bearing on the future of China itself.

Although the agreement scrupulously avoids political entanglements, it is a fact that most of the political friction in the Far East in the past has arisen out of the competitive interests of the big powers in financial matters. The so-called consortium agreement whereby the four powers have agreed to pool their interests eliminates the opportunity for special privileges and options and makes possible the development of China along lines that do not menace her territorial integrity or independence. Eventually Russia will be taken into the partnership and the application of Belgium for entry into the group has been approved.

In fascinating story—this accomplishment of an agreement among all the great powers for the financing of China. And to Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan and Co., goes the credit for the achievement. His finesse and diplomacy in handling the question for the American banking group with the department of state and his tact and skill at "Tao-tai" in the days when the Japanese of the vital necessity of their joining in the scheme are admitted on all sides to have been largely instrumental in the successful outcome of what was claimed to be the usual diplomatic wrangle and futile negotiation.

Of course Mr. Lamont would have been unable to get far without the active support of the United States government. Mr. Lamont won the confidence of President Wilson at Paris and thereafter Secretary Lansing. Under Secretary Polk and Davis he gave Mr. Lamont the position at the department of state, which has been made public. It was known right along that the firm hand of Mr. Davis was behind the American government's policy in the days when President Wilson and Secretary Cully was engaged in other matters.

Japan Just to Consent.
The Japanese were the last to give their consent. They wanted at first to exclude eastern Mongolia and Manchuria from the ground of "openness" and they insisted for a time upon reservations which would give the Japanese freedom of action in certain parts of China, but the American government, though its ambassador Morris and Mr. Lamont at Tokio, succeeded in convincing the Japanese that to make exceptions and give opinions was contrary to the whole idea of the consortium and the Japanese finally assented. The cordial support given the United States government by the British foreign office in the entire negotiation was no small factor in the achievement of complete agreement. Great Britain through her alliance with Japan was able to use her good offices to excellent advantage and the American banking group through their intimate acquaintance with the British developed a harmonious course of action as between the French, British and American governments. Which made it apparent to the Japanese that it was a better course to join with the other powers than to attempt to play a lone hand.

Has Stabilizing Effect.

The significance of the documents

just made public by the department of state simultaneously with the foreign offices of Japan, Great Britain and France will not become apparent at once but it is not mere surmise to state that the negotiation will have a stabilizing effect on far Eastern politics and perhaps remove one of the sources of friction on which the jinxes have built their theories of "the next war in the Pacific."

SUCCEEDS MCCARTHY AS FUND CHAIRMAN

D. E. Soule is in charge of the Wisconsin state fund for the relief of the starving in China, succeeding the late Dr. Charles McCarthy, according to word received by City Clerk Sartell. This information was contained in a letter from the Wisconsin Free Library commission acknowledging receipt of $44.94, the last contribution from Janesville.

Jail Breaker of 23 Years Ago Again Behind Bars

Jefferson.—Peter Kohl, proprietor of a cleaning and drying establishment in Milwaukee, who escaped 23 years ago from the Jefferson county jail, was brought back to Jefferson last week and sentenced to 20 days in the county jail by Judge Grimm. Kohl was escaped from the jail with three other men who unlocked the cell doors by means of a crudely fashioned key of lead. Climbing to the attic, they slipped to the ground by means of blankets knotted together, and made their escape.

Anti-Nonpartisans Open Convention in N. Dakota

Devils Lake, N. D.—Whether or not to call a recall election against several state officials with Non-partisan League endorsement, including Gov. L. J. Brazier, and whether to initiate a number of laws which would affect the state owned industries, will be decided by the convention of anti-Nonpartisans which opened a two day session here Wednesday.

Menasha.—Walter Fisher and Gustave Dierker, two Appleton young men charged with stealing whisky from the home of John Konzelmann, pleaded guilty to the charges in municipal court of Outagamie county, and were given one and one-half years and one-year, respectively, in the state prison at Waupun.

FALLING IN LOVE IS LIKE EXPLOSION SAYS PROFESSOR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Lawton, Ok.—The whys and wherefores of falling in love, as explained by Dr. Herbert M. Britan, professor of philosophy, in students of Bates college are quite simple. "The principal reason why people fall in love is because they are so constituted, both physically and mentally that it is the normal, the natural thing to do," he said. "There are two aspects in the question—The natural susceptibility of the individual and the stimulus that calls forth the mental reaction."

Avoiding of true affection is compared in this professor's love story to the preparing and combustion of high power explosives. "In love, nature has prepared the elements, combined them through countless years, and guaranteed the result when some vision of loveliness, some heroic deed or even some insignificant word or act unlocks the stored up energy of the emotional life."

"There is not one, single formula for arousing love. Just as anger or fear, for example, may excite by a wide variety of circumstances, so love is capable of being awakened by stimuli equally diverse. A beautiful face by no means has the power often ascribed to it. It is by no means indispensable nor does it aid unduly to the intensity of the affection felt for its owner. In man beauty is almost wholly subordinate to other attractions."

Dr. Britan puts little faith in love at first sight.

As a summary of the several ages of susceptibility in love Dr. Britan said: "After twenty, incidental romances will hardly serve to focus attention and the sediment of prolonged experience has settled over the instinct and often so solidified that too tools will seldom suffice to break through to the emotion-bearing Paleolithic stratum of human nature. After this age, falling in love is no longer a matter of instinct. Common sense, good judgment, a true perspective of life tend to discount the enthusiasm and exaggerations of love's young dream and demand a firmer basis for the happiness to be won."

BOND HOUSES GET NOTICE OF CHANGE

City Clerk E. J. Sartell is sending out notices to bond houses in various parts of the country to inform them of the privilege of submitting a deferral payment bid on the $500,000 high school bond issue. It is believed a better bid can be secured on this plan than a cash offer.

City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham may go to Chicago Friday to consult with heads of bond houses on the matter.

PRESS CONGRESS OF WORLD TO MEET IN HAWAII IN FALL

Honolulu, T. H.—The Press Congress of the World, which will open in Honolulu in October of this year, will hold its sessions a stone's throw from the spot where the first printing was done west of the Missouri river, almost one hundred years ago. The old coral building where the Ramage press, brought from Boston by Oliver Loomis, turned out its first work on January 1, 1822, still stands on King street, Honolulu's main thoroughfare. It is but a few steps from the Palace of monarchs to the place where the first printing was done west of the Missouri river, almost one hundred years ago. The press congress will convene in the building in the fall of 1922.

Loomis, which is preserved here, show that he and his precious printing apparatus left Boston on the brig Thaddeus which carried the first Christian missionaries to Hawaii, and landed in the islands, April 3, 1820.

Loomis, who was born in Middlesex, Yates county, New York, in December, 1779, says in his diary that he started setting up his press in Honolulu in December of 1821, and on January 1, 1822, this entry appears: "This day commenced the first printing that was ever done at these islands. Governor Cox was present and printed the first sheet."

The governor referred to was the Hawaiian governor of the island of Oahu on which Honolulu is situated. He had been a warrior chief in the armies of King Kamehameha the Great, who united all the islands under one crown.

Loomis' press was used principally for printing educational matter for the instruction of the Hawaiians by the missionaries, but an entry in his diary in March 1822, shows that at that early date the king had realized its value and had sent him two royal decrees to be printed for promulgation.

The first newspapers turned out in Hawaii were printed in the Hawaiian tongue adapted to English letters, one at Lahaina, Maui, and one at Honolulu, called "Ka Ikaunani" or the Light of Hawaii, and the other at Honolulu called "Kumu Hawaii," or the Foundation of Hawaii.

Both of these papers appeared in 1834. From that day the press of the islands has grown until it embraces papers in Hawaiian, English, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, and Filipino.

The press that made history and laid the foundation of educational work in Hawaii is in the Oregon historical museum at Portland.

Heaven Dam.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Walter, Rolling Prairie, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. A second wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. E. Schreiber, Beaver Dam, after which a social program was presented during the afternoon and evening. Presents of various kinds were made by Mrs. Michael Rios, Burnett, and Clarence Kleckner, Rolling Prairie, and Mr. Walter read a poem portraying his married life.
